Products: CLASSIC

A family business with tradition.

Machines for agriculture have been produced in Grieskirchen, Upper Austria for more than 140 years.

The goal is to facilitate the most difficult work for the customer and to increase the efficiency in agriculture.

As a traditional family business with a worldwide presence and production sites in several European countries, it is well aware of its responsibility towards future generations and the environment.

So it was understandable that it has been looked for new, progressive and, above all, natural methods in water treatment.

So what could be more natural than to turn to a company like EWO, whose products meet these requirements.

In 2011 the first EWO CLASSIC device was installed in the water supply to the company kitchen / canteen. Because of the success in this area and because the employees were enthusiastic about the improved water quality, EWO devices were finally installed in the central water supply and water heating.

Those responsible in building management and the house technicians are meanwhile convinced of the effect of the natural EWO water revitalization.
